

Title X Designed by Communities, for Communities

The Title X family planning program, administered by the Office of Population Affairs (OPA), is the nation's only grant program dedicated solely to providing family planning and other preventive health care to low-income, under-insured, and uninsured individuals who otherwise lack access to care. In 2017, OPA provided Title X funding to 89 grantees that supported a network of 3,858 service sites in communities across the country.

Family planning and sexual health care includes:

- ▶ Contraception
- ▶ Counseling
- ▶ Services for STDs
- ▶ HIV testing
- ▶ Cervical cancer screening

Title X Service Sites Include:

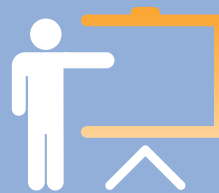

Title X funds can be used to support:

Direct Health Care Services

Workforce

Community Education

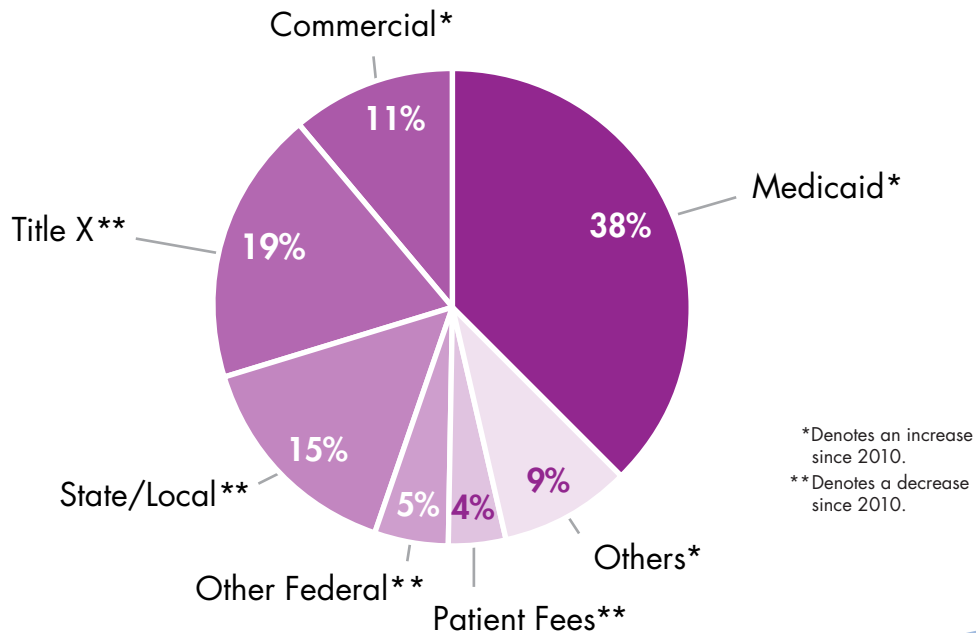

Staff Training

Title X funds are not the sole source of income for the family planning safety net.

Where do family planning health centers receive funding?

Health centers rely on several different funding sources, including Title X, to provide critical family planning care and other preventive health services to millions of people each year.

Title X sets the standard for high-quality, patient-centered clinical care.

6 in 10 women receiving contraceptive care at a Title X-supported health center report that provider was their sole source of medical care in the previous year.

Title X is a trusted source of care regardless of one's ability to pay.

Title X patient demand has increased, but its budget has not.
