

Title X in Pennsylvania Improving Public Health and Saving Taxpayer Dollars

Between FY2010 - FY2013, funding for Title X was cut by $39.2 million—12.3% in three fiscal years.

Title X Served 255,703 Pennsylvania Residents in 2013

Adagio Health, the Family Health Council of Central Pennsylvania, Inc., the Family Planning Council, and Maternal and Family Health Services, Inc. are the Title X grantees in Pennsylvania, supporting 160 Title X-funded health centers across the state.ⁱ The Title X network served 232,169 women and 23,534 men, for a total of 255,703 residents of Pennsylvania in 2013.ⁱⁱ

Title X provides high-quality family planning services and other preventive health care to low-income and uninsured individuals who may otherwise lack access to health care.

- Of the 255,703 patients served, 62% had incomes at or below 100% of the federal poverty level (FPL), meaning they earned $11,490 a year or less.ⁱⁱⁱ
- Eighty-six percent of Title X patients in Pennsylvania earned less than $28,725 a year (250% of the FPL).^{iv}

Title X Saves Pennsylvania Residents' Taxpayer Dollars

Title X supports critical infrastructure needs that are not reimbursable under Medicaid or commercial insurance, such as staff salaries, individual patient education, community-level outreach, and public education about family planning, women's health, and sexual health issues. Without Title X, access to high-quality family planning services for low-income Pennsylvania residents would not be possible.

- The average cost of a Medicaid-funded birth is $12,613.^v In 2008, births resulting from unintended pregnancies cost Pennsylvania's taxpayers $342 million.^{vi}
- The Title X program helps alleviate these costs by preventing unintended pregnancy through contraception, counseling, and other services.^{vii}

Title X is Essential to Improving Public Health and Saving Taxpayer Dollars in Pennsylvania

Cutting funding for family planning services will lead to more unintended pregnancies and higher health care costs in Pennsylvania. Family planning helps women and families plan the timing and spacing of their pregnancies, which results in better educational attainment and economic security; these, in turn, are linked to better health outcomes for women and families.

- Family planning services at Pennsylvania's Title X-funded health centers helped prevent 60,700 unintended pregnancies in 2012, which would likely have resulted in 30,100 unintended births and 20,700 abortions.^{viii}
- Without publicly funded family planning, the number of unintended pregnancies in Pennsylvania would be 44% higher.^{ix}
- Title X-funded services produce significant cost savings to the federal and state governments; services provided at Title X-supported sites in Pennsylvania accounted for $231.6 million in such savings in 2010 alone.^x

Pennsylvania's Title X-funded health centers provide a wide range of services:

- Pregnancy testing
- Contraceptive services
- Pelvic exams
- Screening for cervical and breast cancer
- Screening for high blood pressure, anemia, and diabetes
- Screening for STDs and HIV/AIDS
- Infertility services
- Health education
- Referrals for other health and social services

Additional cuts to Title X funding—especially in the current economy—would harm tens of thousands of low-income and poor families throughout Pennsylvania, in turn costing, not saving, the federal government money.
