

Title X-funded health centers helped women avoid one million unintended pregnancies in 2013, which prevented 501,000 unplanned births and 345,000 abortions.

Despite these positive health impacts, federal funding for Title X has shrunk, and now fewer low-income and uninsured people across the country, and in Minnesota, are able to access family planning and sexual health services funded by Title X.

Minnesota has a very generous expansion family planning waiver, covering anyone at or below 200% federal poverty level. The majority of patients qualify, so that is filling some of the gap. PPMNS has also devoted significant resources over the past year or two toward improving patient experience. They have added online health services and online appointments and have upgraded several service sites.
