The health care law, sometimes called “Obamacare,” requires most Americans to have health insurance. In some circumstances many people may qualify for health care coverage and financial assistance. To find out if you qualify, answer the following questions…

In the last 60 days have you:
- Gotten married?
- Had a baby?
- Adopted a child?
- Placed a child for adoption or in foster care?
- Moved to a new county or state?
- Become a US citizen?
- Left incarceration?
- Become a member of an Indian tribe?
- Lost your job or had a decrease in your income?

If you answered “Yes” to any of the above, please speak to one of our staff to get more information about how to get covered.

There are several ways to get covered before the next open enrollment:
- Use a special enrollment.
- Qualify for Medicaid.

After open enrollment ends, you can get covered through the marketplace if you have a qualifying life event or a complex situation related to applying in the marketplace. If you do, you get 60 days to buy a health insurance plan through the marketplace. When you enroll in a plan during a special enrollment period, you may be able to get financial assistance that reduces how much you pay for coverage.

Sign Up for Medicaid
Those who qualify can still enroll in Medicaid — there’s no deadline. Eligibility is based on income and varies from state to state. About half the states expanded their Medicaid programs. Individuals making less than $16,243 per year and families of 4 making less than $33,465 per year may qualify for Medicaid enrollment.

Get Ready for Next Time
The next open enrollment starts November 1st. That’s another chance to get covered or switch into a plan with subsidies.
